Call for Abstracts: Finding Ocean-Based Solutions to Society's Greatest Global Challenges (Ocean Visions Session)

Deadline: 11. September 2019

"In this session, ocean scientists, social scientists, and engineers will describe innovative approaches that will enable society to address climate, energy, and food security during the 21st century while simultaneously maintaining biodiversity and a sustainable global environment. Topics to be discussed will include: algae-based aquaculture for food and fuels, conservation of marine protected areas in a changing ocean, elimination of marine pollution, harnessing energy from the sea, human-assisted adaptation of marine ecosystems and living resources to ocean warming and acidification, ocean-based climate mitigation and CO₂ sequestration technologies, ocean optimism."
