

05.05.2019

# Media

0 Comments

Pacific Standard: The Billionaires' Guide to Hacking the Planet

"SRM refers to "solar radiation management," the most frequently discussed form of geoengineering, which involves injecting aerosols in the stratosphere to cool the planet—much like major volcanic eruptions do naturally. The other key term here is "unilateral action." This refers to the possibility that someone might simply take matters into his own hands."

LINK

Read more » Pacific Standard: The Billionaires' Guide to Hacking the Planet

13.04.2012

# Political Papers

0 Comments

Reekie, Tristan; Howard, Will (2012): Geoengineering

Reekie, Tristan; Howard, Will (2012): Geoengineering. Published by Australian Government. Australia's Chief Scientist (Occasional Paper Series, 1)

"The Office of the Chief Scientist has launched the first report in its Occasional Paper Series, examining the risks and benefits of geonengineering to mitigate the effects of climate change."

Link

Read more » Reekie, Tristan; Howard, Will \(2012\): Geoengineering

18.03.2012

# Media

0 Comments

Spektrum
DER WISSENSCHAFT

Spektrum der Wissenschaft - Special Issue on Climate Change/CE (German Language"

German popular science magazine with two articles on CE

Editorial: Countermeasures, adjustments or tamper with

Thomas Leisner, Andreas Oschlies and Wilfried Rickels: Is it possible to artificially cool the planet?

Miriam Ruhenstroth: Interview with Konrad Ott