

Kiel, 29. August 2014

Ecologist: Geoengineering - the 'declaration' that never was may cause real harm

"It was a great story, writes Andrew Lockley - scientists signing up to a 'Berlin Declaration' imposing an effective 'test ban' on outdoor geoengineering experiments. Except there was no declaration, and scientists never agreed to it. The world's media got it completely wrong, yet the mud will stick - and may cause severe harm in the fight against climate change."

Link

Linked to: discourse analysis

0 Comments

Add a comment

You need to be logged in to add comments.