

Kiel, 29. October 2015

Newsweek: Diamond Dust in the Sky Could Cool Planet, Say Climate Scientists

"Spraying billions of dollars worth of diamond particles into the atmosphere could be an effective method of combating global warming, according to an analysis by climate scientists"

Link

Linked to: Solar Radiation Management

0 Comments

Add a comment

You need to be logged in to add comments.