

Kiel, 22. September 2012

People's World: As ice melts, geoengineering gets a less frosty reception

CE to tackle melting of the arctic. "Though initially suggested as a 'fringe idea,' it was later considered potentially viable, but only as an accompanying strategy to a better solution. Now, scientists are looking at the technology more seriously."

Link

Linked to: Solar Radiation Management

0 Comments

Add a comment

You need to be logged in to add comments.