

Kiel, 25. February 2019

The Japan Times: Geoengineering is a dangerous distraction

"Proponents advocate two main geoengineering strategies: carbon dioxide removal (CDR) and solar radiation modification (SRM). Both — along with most other geoengineering strategies — would depend on the widespread deployment of so-called carbon capture, utilization and storage (CCUS), in which a suite of technologies captures carbon dioxide from industrial waste streams and stores it underground, in the oceans or in materials."

LINK

Linked to: Carbon Dioxid Removal , Solar Radiation Management

0 Comments

Add a comment

You need to be logged in to add comments.