

Kiel, 28. December 2018

The Wire: India Should Demand International, Political Oversight for Geoengineering R&D

"Multilateral climate negotiations led by the UN have ended on disappointing notes of late. This has prompted climate scientists to weigh the pros and cons of climate geoengineering. Indian scientists, policymakers, and the public must also engage in these debates, especially given the potentially major implications of geoengineering for the monsoons in South Asia and Africa."

LINK

Linked to: BECCS , Carbon Dioxid Removal , risk perception , Solar Radiation Management

0 Comments

Add a comment

You need to be logged in to add comments.