

Kiel, 30. November 2017

Vox: Bali's fiery volcano could end up temporarily cooling the entire planet

"Scientists are also toying with the controversial idea of imitating volcanoes to keep global warming in check, a strategy known as geoengineering. This includes deliberately seeding clouds or spraying sulfuric acid into the stratosphere to offset some of humanity's impacts on the world's climate. "

LINK

Linked to: Solar Radiation Management , vulcanic eruption

0 Comments

Add a comment

You need to be logged in to add comments.