

Kiel, 11. January 2021

World Resources Institute: Direct Air Capture: Resource Considerations and Costs for Carbon Removal

"Direct air capture (DAC) is gaining traction as a promising carbon removal approach that will likely be a necessary part of a larger carbon removal portfolio. Careful consideration of DAC's energy, land and water use will be needed to inform siting and to minimize resource impacts."

LINK

Linked to: Carbon Dioxid Removal , cost analysis , Direct Air Capture

0 Comments

Add a comment

You need to be logged in to add comments.